Things Which are Needed by the Woman Who Motors,

Although everybody is not the happy possessor of a motor car, there are few women in these progressive days who do not number among their friends or relatives some one more blessed than themselves by fate, so that it has be come almost a necessity to include garments suitable to this pursuit among the items of a well agripped wardrobe

The new motor coats are made of tweed, cloth and even leather. Indeed leather as a decorative feature is a great deal used on motor garments in the form of piplings, buttons, collar and cuffs. Sometimes it is applied in scroll designs, in which case the leath er is embossed or cut into conventional patterns for winter wear some loose fur lined sack coats are made which represent the acme of comfort.

The cut of the motoring cost does not vary much from any ordinary lon; wrap except in the sleeves, which should always be large, with closely buttoned wrists, which are far more preferable than any other style, while a flapping cape is an abomination

The matter of headgear is an impor tant one and the veil a supreme re autiement of the woman who motors. The most sensible and comfortable hat is a light doth peaked cap ar ranged with an in-ine bijm for the purpose of holding the long pins in po-

WOMAN'S STRENUOUSNESS. Too Busy With the Crowded Hour to

In Carlyle's "Past and Present" we have mention of "the strenuous life," a phrase which has been brought into current use by our president, and lately, through the same source, we have the phrase "the crowded hour." But long before these phrases came into common use there were women who lived lives so stremuous that some of them were not sorry when the time came to lie down and rest forever.

To many, many women, living only with the hope that some day things will be different, it seems as if life were all one "crowded hour," to be got through with somehow from day to day. Even when night comes and the tired body lies down to rest the busy brain is still at work, planning busy brain is still at work, planning the duties of the next day or the next strapped with the delaine, and the week or month, as the case may be. until sleep mercifully puts an end to its reaching out into the future to days That may Kever come.

For most women the first year after marriage is generally the most strenuous in all their existence. All that went bestlen with these rates.

One-way rate plus 25 cents for the consent plus 25 cents for the to make life delightful during giribood ugain and in the endeavor joins a club or two herself, and then life, strenuous as it may have been before, becomes far more so. She has not removed the first cause, but has added to it. Then there is the woman who is always geiting ready to be happy. It may be she is working hard to educate her children, pay for the home or furnish it in a "grand" manner, expecting some day to enjoy it all. That time will probably never come, for when she has accomplished her purpose other things to work for will open before her or she will have forgotten how to rest. The only salvation for such lives is to pause right in the undst of "the crowded hour" and then decide what is most worth while. The time bobemian is one who knows how to wring pleasure from every passing moment. Whatever may be the enjoyment of the present moment- whether it is the pleasure he or she planned or wished for or some other bit of enjoyment-it is grasped and enjoyed to the stmost, and it would be a bit of wisdom on the part of all womankind if this same spirit of the true bulumian were cultivated for its werth,-Mary Taylor-Ross in New Idea Magazine.

Fortune of Mr. A. L. White,

The General Manager of the Lima Locomotive Works.

WINS A CASE IN SUPREME COURT WHICH HAS BEEN STANDING FOR TEN YEARS.

A. L. White, general manager of the Lima Locomotive works, has just wor a case in the supreme court which crants han a fortune after over ter years of legal travel through all the cours of the state.

The judgment given is but for $15. 000, but the decision virtually carries the same judgment for a like case involving $10,000 and the stock acquired by these judgments is now worth 200 per cent.

When a boy Mr. White entered the employ of J. F. Cooper, at Marion. Ohio, working for the big industry there for a period of 24 years. Ten years ago Mr. Cooper meorporated the company and Mr. White was given $45,000 worth of stock. years later Mr. Cooper died and his beirs refused to honor the contract for White's stock which was being paid to him from the net carnings. White started legal action, was heaten in the lower courts but won this week in the supreme court on his first action for the $15,000 block of stock,

As his second block of $29,000 ibased on exactly the same legal lines Mr. White will win both and his $45,-000 worth of the Mt. Vernon stock is now quoted at $90,000, which sum is offered at any time he wishes to dispose of it.
